

ANDALUCÍA EN LA HISTORIA

Nº66: La cultura del vino

ABSTRACT

Viticulture is one of the most important sectors within Andalusian economy, with an activity once established in the 8th century before our Age and since then always present until the modern and contemporary eras. Therefore, talking about wine leads to go through the whole history of Andalusia and, in particular, throughout the end of the modern era and the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, when transformation of traditional viticulture into modern agro-industry happens. Wine-workers, economy, art and architecture, winemakers (male and females) stage this number of Andalucía en la Historia.